

Additional features - Already messaged button

The HomeSwapper site contains all the tools and features you'll need to swap your home. But have you ever noticed the Already messaged button?

When you go to your Matches page you'll see a list of all the properties that you could try to form a swap with. It will look something like this:

The best way to go about finding your swap is to get chatting to other swappers! We've made this really easy to do with the Message swapper button underneath the home adverts in your Matches list.

If you're a busy swapper then you'll probably be sending messages to lots of swappers... which can be hard to keep track of! To help take care of this and show you at a glance who you've already messaged, when you send a message to someone, the Message swapper button will turn orange, with the words, Already messaged.

This will help to make sure you're only messaging people you haven't already contacted. You'll also know if you're getting fresh matches, as you'll see that you haven't messaged them yet!

If you click on the Already messaged button, you'll be taken through to your previous conversation with that swapper, so you can carry on chatting – very handy!
